THE COME-BACK KID

Remember the old saying: “Life begins at 40”?
It was definitely first pronounced by a 40-something-year-old in the throes of a mid-life crisis.
But what about 50? 55? 60? 65?

The Newcastle 7 in 2008 was my first road race since 2000.

Looking at my records I did two races that year: the Chester Zoo 10K and the Eccleshall 10.63 miles (it must have been the first year that they cut it down from the 15 miler). Those races in 2000 must also have been a come-back as I did none at all in 1999 and only five in 1998. I had to really cut down on racing because of shin-splints, Achilles problems, a pulled calf and hamstring pains. I also spent money on having a scan on my knee. I must have been a wreck, but the troubles were not all at the same time.

Back to the Newcastle 7: 30th March 2008 and coming out for the start. Where do I stand? I don't know what sort of time to expect or how I will compare with the other runners.

Feeling optimistic I stood near to Colin Earp. To growing excitement, the mayor mumbled something at the front (I was too far back to make out any words), the start signal was given and we were off!

I had been warned that it was hilly; the far-off aerial masts we were to run up to had been pointed out to me. I thought it might be up and down, but it was just a long uphill slog for about three miles. I was very pleased to be keeping my place with the surrounding runners and even to slowly gain on some. The light blue vests of Colin Earp, Phil Cliff and Rob Mayers were not too far ahead for me to follow.

I kept going nicely, remembering the happy pain of racing: there should always be some pain (otherwise you are not trying enough) and the happy feeling is then seeing people worse off than you! After we reached the aerials the long undulations started. The three light blues were still visible ahead. At about 4 to 5 miles I was catching Phil, until I called out to him to get going. Seeing me just behind was enough to make that happen and he moved away to catch his real rival, Rob.

Here at the Harriers, Life Begins at 66!

Tony Salthouse, a club founder-member, came back to the racing scene after eight years 'resting' - and this is his story (so far):

Running did not get any easier. I was definitely thinking racing was not enjoyable and I should give up all running. Then I remembered this was a usual thought during any of my races and all you have to do is to ignore it, keep going, and you will feel so much better when the race stops. The usual finishing thought is: I could run it faster next time!

Anyway, enough of the mental anguish; 6 miles gone and Colin is getting nearer; catching him is now the target. Near the end I overtake, employing the usual tactic of trying to make it look easy.

The hill at the end was not easy at all and I could feel that I had lost some drive and it was really hard work. Someone was catching me and overtaking: luckily it was not Colin but a young lady. I could hear some South Cheshire support urging us on, and then I got into the finishing funnel a 'full' two seconds ahead of Colin. Success!!!! Thankyou Colin.

*Tony came 109th, in 52:58 (7:34/mile)
His 74.26% age-related achievement was higher than all other Harriers in the race.*

POST-RACE SOCIALS

ATTENTION ALL RACERS

The team spirit within the club has been phenomenal of late, particularly on race days.

As a club, we would like to make you aware of forthcoming informal post-race get-togethers at nice pubs.

It's an opportunity, for those who have time, to recuperate and share race experiences with fellow SCH racers within pleasant surroundings.

After the Whitley 10K on Sunday 27th April members met at the 'Birch and Bottle', just 3 minutes from the Village Hall.

'A country pub with a relaxed atmosphere, good food and ale.'

If anyone has any suggestions for future venues, please let Carol Godfrey know.

We will post venues in the newsletter, on the notice board and on the forum.

OPEN EVENING

APRIL saw the inaugural South Cheshire Harriers open evening, an innovation, but nevertheless marked in traditional fashion by the consumption of several bowls of chips and plates of bread and butter after the run. It was not, truth to tell, a stampede to rival the Oxford Street sales, (though we did have weather more fitting for the first week in January) but it was potentially a useful dry run (on a wet evening) for future attempts.

In a bid to create a carnival atmosphere, Steve Whincup supplied an epic photo montage of club runners in all their athletic glory and brought his laptop so the website and forum could be demonstrated; Phil and Carol set up a notice board of upcoming social events; Mike Hatton brought several boxes of club kit, some of it dating back to the late Bronze Age (and which nevertheless sold very well!); and Melvyn had prepared a series of basic conjuring tricks. Alas, these were not called on.

After introductions and a brief tour of the exhibits, we split into groups and took our new runners out to see the glories of Shavington in the drizzle, before bringing them back for the real business of the evening (the chips).

The idea of the open evening was part of a broader scheme to publicise the club more widely and attract new members. We seem to be gaining new runners anyway and it should be emphasised that every Tuesday and Thursday are, in practice, open evenings - anyone who wants to try the club can come any time - but if anyone reading has specific ideas for what a subsequent open evening might entail, or just good ideas for publicising the club more generally, do let us know.

If you've joined relatively recently, we'd also be interested to know what information about the club proved useful, anything you wish you'd known beforehand, or anything that was either helpful or off-putting on your early visits.

Finally, for the more adventurous lady runner, the Harriers-branded crop top and hot pants combo did, against all odds, remain unsold and was packed away again with the rest of the kit. No reasonable offer refused.
